Case 2 - Intellectual Development Practices

A quiz is a mind game in which learners (as individuals or in teams) attempt to answer questions correctly. Quizzes are usually scored in points and many are designed to determine a winner from a group of participants. This gives the teacher an instant idea of what learners already know about the topic. Quizzes can be used to revise learners' retention of previous lessons or at the end of a lesson. This allows the teacher to get feedback on learners' progression.

In an educational context, quizzes are used to test learners' understanding of the key concepts covered in each chapter also it is sometimes used to assess learners' intellectual quotient. Considering the significance of quizzes, the College of Education has conducted quiz competitions in various occasions for the cognitive development of the student- teachers. This type of quiz competitions provides a good lead-in for either a lecture or discussion of the material. Students grow curious about the answers and the easy chance to do well gives students a feeling of self-esteem. Students are provided with a real foundation for intellectual growth by engaging in quiz activity.
